

Ohio Assembly Returns To Wrap Up Last Major Measures

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— State lawmakers were set today to tackle problems on code of ethics and unemployment compensation laws—the last major obstacles to adjourning the legislature for this year.

Several other lesser items were on tap, but Senate and House leaders said they wanted to put the wraps on the 1973 session. They will return the first of next January.

A joint conference committee of the Senate and House reported it was near agreement on the code of ethics bill requiring public officials to disclose their sources of income, among other things.

The main issue, conferees said, was a question of just how far down the line of local public officials the legislation would go. Also under negotiation was a question of whether attorney-public officials could practice before state boards and commissions.

Gov. John J. Gilligan termed the code of ethics and conflict of interest bill his No. 1 legislative priority at the start of the session eight months ago.

A series of emergency bills poured in as the members returned to their chambers Monday after a month's recess. Some are designed to correct errors and oversights in previous legislation.

Bills offered in the House would permit the sale of state lottery tickets in bars and other liquor spots, and provide for a $5,000 annual salary for members of the impending State Lottery Commission. The original lottery bill provided for members to receive expenses only.

House Speaker A. G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, said it was felt that paying the members a salary would bring them in line with members of other state commissions and "help attract a better caliber of members."

Also introduced were bills exempting real estate salesmen licensed between Oct. 12, 1971 and Jan. 2, 1972, from newly - required educational qualifications. A new Senate bill, rather than exempting them, would let the affected salesmen have two more years to complete the requirements.

Other new bills in the House would correct an oversight by including the assistant majority floor leader in a previously approved legislative pay raise bill, and allow the University of Cincinnati to retain student fees established before a freeze was placed on them June 29.

Bills introduced into the Senate would:

—Require a minimum of six full-time deputy sheriffs in counties of 19,000 or more population and establish an $8,700-a-year minimum salary.

—Require the use of lights and reflectorized devices on bicycles.

Passed in the Senate were House bills that would:

—Permit the exchange of parcels of land between Bowling Green State University and the city of Bowling Green.

—Transfer from the state to the village of Gnadenhutten, Tuscarawas County, rights to the Gnadenhutten State Memorial, site of a pioneer settlement.

The Senate, as a matter of routine, rejected House amendments to a constitutional amendment proposal after it decided it was too late to get it on the November ballot.

The Senate action sending the proposal permitting in-term pay raises for public officials to a joint conference committee, permits the legislation to be rewritten for the primary ballot in 1974.

Sen. Walter L. White, R-12 Lima, asked that House amendments be refused because the Aug. 22 deadline for getting the issue on the November ballot had already passed.

The Senate, in other actions, corrected oversights in legislation passed before the July 27 recess and concurred in minor House amendments to several routine bills.

The House passed 87-0 and sent to the Senate a measure increasing the pensions of about 25,000 members of the various state retirement systems who retired between June 30, 1968, and July 1, 1973. They were left out of a previous benefits bill. The increases would range from $2 to a maximum of $10 a month, at the rate of $2 per month of retirement during the prescribed period.

Increases would go to members of the State Teachers Retirement System, Public Employees Retirement System, School Employees Retirement System, and other smaller pension programs.

The House sent to the Senate by a 71-18 vote a major bill setting up a public defender system to provide legal counsel for indigents brought to trial in the state's courts.

Rep. George E. Mastics, R-3 Cleveland, the main sponsor, said the bill represents deliberations which have covered four legislative sessions in a span of seven years.

The bill provides for the appointment of a 13-member State Public Defender Commission which would provide for the employment of lawyers on a regional basis. Counties could operate their own defender systems with half the cost paid by the state under an alternative provided in the legislation.

Mastics had no specific figures as to the cost of the program but said testimony indicated the state could run the program with the $4 million it now spends annually to pay lawyers assigned to represent indigent defendants.

In other action, the House sent to the Senate bills authorizing township trustees to adopt codes for fire protection and permitting the sale of more than 140 acres of prison farm land in Erie County.

Rep. Ethel G. Swanbeck, R-72 Huron, said the sale at public auction is not related to a state administration plan to cease farming operations at state institutions.

In other action, the House added its approval to Senate measures which would:

—Increase the amount of vacation time a state employee may accumulate.

—Permit the blanket bonding of dog wardens.

—Allow issuance of temporary watercraft and outboard motor permits.

—Allow drivers with five to seven penalty points to have two points deleted from their records upon completion of a remedial driving course.

—Permit 17-year-olds with valid driver's licenses to operate certain vehicles in connection with their employment on the employers' premises.

North Viets Have Violated Peace Accords

WASHINGTON (AP) — The North Vietnamese have violated peace accords by transforming the onetime U.S. base at Khe Sanh in South Vietnam into a major military complex, say Pentagon officials.

Defense Department analysts say the Communists have built new roads leading south and west, big storage and repair facilities and restored and enlarged the old air field.

Khe Sanh, they said, is now protected with an air defense shield similar to that surrounding Hanoi.

A new road network along the western side of South Vietnam as well as the revitalization of the Khe Sanh previously have been reported but not in such detail.

It was not clear why, with apparently little or no chance that Congress would approve any return of U.S. airpower to Indochina, that Pentagon officials chose now to comment again on the Khe Sanh buildup.

Officials, who asked not to be quoted by name, deny they are preparing Congress for any new request for new authority to bomb. Such authority disappeared by law with the Aug. 15 bombing halt in Cambodia.

The same officials indicated other smaller North Vietnamese bases are under construction in other parts of South Vietnam.

U.S. Air Force photographs of Khe Sanh are taken from high-flying unmanned drone planes.

Officials said the runway at Khe Sanh has been lengthened from 3,400 feet to nearly a mile long, allowing it to handle the largest Soviet MIG jets and other planes. None have shown up so far.

A Pentagon analyst said the North Vietnamese have established a forward base "from which to stage a future air operations."

Government Blocks Switch From Coal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has acted to block coal-burning industries from switching to scarce petroleum fuels needed for home heating.

Power plants and other coalburners would have to continue using coal for at least a year under tentative regulations announced Monday by White House energy chief John Love.

Before the regulations are made final, a public hearing will be held Sept. 6-7 at the Interior Department, Love said.

He said the action, the first significant use of President Nixon's authority to impose mandatory allocation of fuels, was an effort to ease a serious home heating fuel shortage expected this winter.

Exempted from the proposed rules would be coal-burning industries required to switch fuels to meet public health requirements of federal air quality standards.

P.N. Gammelgard, senior vice president for public and environmental affairs, called the new regulations "reasonable as well as necessary."

Energy officials have complained that the recent trend among power plants to substitute oil for coal was worsening the fuel crisis.

Love said the new regulations were required because "there may be insufficient supplies of petroleum products, especially home heating oils, to meet essential needs in certain parts of the country and to insure an adequate supply to the independent distributors and marketers."

BECAUSE Monday is Labor Day and a legal holiday, the Highway Patrol Driver Examining Station will be closed along with other city and county offices and many area businesses.

CITIZENS seeking auto tags and driver licenses after Sept. 3 will observe hours of 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday, Deputy Registrar Beatrice Moorehead notes. Her office traditionally opens one-half hour later than other offices of the Pickaway County Courthouse.

THIS may be remembered as the summer the pear trees were confused. Mr. and Mrs. Glen Kerns, Route 1, brought a branch from their tree which was in full bloom. At the same time, a nearly mature pear was hanging from the branch.

And then Jack Lemaster, Route 3, did a double take as he was passing his neighbor Bill Caudill's house. Caudill's pear tree was in full bloom.

LYNN McCoy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McCoy, Route 5, was one of 25 amateur award winners in a field of 450 in the 1973 fine arts exhibition at the Ohio State Fair with her collage "Pollution." The winners were guests at the preview opening and awards presentation at the Cox Fine Arts Center.

Quake Rocks Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A strong earthquake centered south of Mexico City damaged homes and churches and killed two persons in the nearby city of Puebla today, early Red Cross reports said.

The predawn tremor shook Mexico City hard enough to send tourists and residents into the streets in nightclothes.

The Red Cross in Puebla, about 75 miles southeast of the capital, had reports of 16 injuries in addition to two deaths. But the duty officer said many ambulances were still out and had not yet filed reports.

Sgt. Rafael Limon of the Puebla Fire

Department said five homes and two churches in and around Puebla were reported destroyed or badly damaged.

The earthquake, measured in Mexico City at 5.5 on the open-ended Richter scale, hit moments before 4 a.m. local time (6 a.m. EDT). The seismology station reported it was centered about 129 miles south of here near the Puebla-Oaxaca state line.

Quakes reading 4.5 and up are considered potentially dangerous.

"The Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help in the center of town collapsed," Limon reported. "We have had many calls."

Limon said another church, in the village of Tonazintla near Puebla, had also suffered serious damage.

"The earthquake was strong here. I don't remember another one as strong."

There were no reports of serious damage or injuries in Mexico City. But several hundred tourists, most of them Americans, fled into the streets and afterward stood in front of hotels or sat on the curb at the U.S. Embassy awaiting word on the safety of their lodgings.

The quake knocked out power, however, in parts of the capital and police reported hundreds of calls from frightened citizens.

Earthquakes and tremors are not unusual in the Mexican capital. In 1957 a quake measuring 7.0 on the Richter scale caused widespread damage and several deaths. Another lighter quake in 1968 caused one death. Seismologists say they record more than 2,000 tremors a year in Mexico City.

State Fair Attendance Runs Ahead

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Estimated paid attendance at the Ohio State Fair was running about 38,000 persons ahead of last year as of Monday.

A spokesman said 80,954 fairgoers pushed through turnstiles and 90 degree temperatures at the expositions grounds Monday.

The grandstand was packed for two performances by the Osmonds. The early program was delayed almost one hour when the Osmonds refused to appear before television cameras.

The cameras were removed after it was explained the musical group signed an exclusive film contract. The late show began on time.

Today was Cincinnati Day, Girl Scout Day, Press Day and Avco Day.

Scheduled during the day was harness racing at the grandstand, a Schlitz 40 horse hitch show, auto thrill show and the Avco Hour of Stars.

Sonny and Cher were to perform at the grandstand.

On Thursday, the governor and legislators were to be honored along with the city of Akron.

Heat, Humidity

Cook Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heat and humidity cooked the eastern two-thirds of the nation today as fair weather prevailed over most of the continent.

Temperatures at most places held in the 70s and 80s before dawn, moving up to the 80s and 90s during the day.

Cooler air settled over the Northwest, lowering temperatures to the 50s through the northern Rockies and offering hope of relief to the Dakotas, where temperatures were in the 100s Monday.

A few thundershowers were scattered along the northern Plains, the Gulf Coast through Florida and in northern New England.

Rainfall was less than an inch, but winds up to 60 miles per hour buffeted Rapid City, S.D., and Livingston, Mont., Monday evening. A funnel cloud was sighted near Williston, N.D., but no damage or injuries were reported.

Humidity and haze shrouded the New York City, Boston, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh areas.

The intense heat Monday caused some electrical power shortages. Power was cut back slightly in Illinois. Utilities in many areas chalked up new highs for electricity consumption.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 43 at Evanston, Wyo., Butte, Mont., and Arcata, Calif., to 86 at Phoenix, Ariz.

Swedish Hostages Held 6th Day

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Stockholm police today drilled more holes in the ceiling of the downtown bank vault in which two convicts were holding three women and a man hostage for the sixth day.

Describing their latest strategy as "Operation Swiss Cheese," the police said they would limit the freedom of movement of gunman Jan-Erik Olsson, a 32-year-old bank robber, and Clark Olofsson, a life-terminer for murder, by exposing them to police sharpshooters. They hoped this pressure eventually would force the men to surrender.

The strategy was not an immediate success. Instead a shot was fired from the vault through one of the new holes, and the bullet went through a policeman's hand and injured his jaw. But his condition was not serious.

He was the second casualty of the siege. Olsson last Thursday wounded another policeman in the hand.

Police spokesmen refused to confirm or deny a report that at least one of the women in the vault had been raped, and one spokesman suggested that Olsson might have given out such a report "to put the police under extra pressure."

Police sources said the oldest of the three women, 31-year-old Birgitta Lundblad, the mother of two small children, had been raped repeatedly. The sources would not say whether the two other women also had been sexually assaulted.

Police Commissioner Kurt Lindroth described Olsson and Olofsson as "human beasts." One police official said what was happening in the vault was "the worst we have experienced ever."

The police bugged the 19-by-40-foot vault and were listening in.

The authorities said they had no contact Monday with the hostages. But Police Supt. Aake Aakesson said that, "as far as we can judge, they seem to be in a relatively fair condition under the circumstances."

Olsson, a safecracker who escaped from prison earlier this month, seized the four hostages and holed up with them in the Kreditbanken last Thursday after the police interrupted his attempt to hold up the bank. He demanded $650,000 in ransom and safe conduct out of the country for himself and Olofsson, a friend from prison days.

The government brought Olofsson to the bank and paid Olsson the money but refused to let them get away unless they released the hostages. Olsson, however, insisted on taking two of them with him to insure their escape.

The two convicts and the hostages have been confined inside the bank's vault since Saturday, when police slammed the door while all six were inside. They were without food, water or sanitary facilities until Monday, when some supplies were passed through holes the police had drilled in the ceiling.

Police had considered piping sleeping gas into the vault and then storming the chamber. But Olsson told police that he had tied ropes around the necks of his captives and attached the ends to handles high up on safe-deposit boxes.

"If you use gas, the hostages will sink and strangle and then it is you and not me who killed them," he said.

Aakesson told a news conference early today, however, that none of the hostages was strung up in such a manner. He would not say how the police knew this.

Olsson's brother offered the police his assistance late Monday night, but they did not say whether they would accept the offer.

Vitamin C Claims Dampened By Test

CHICAGO (AP) — An Indiana chemist has found that massive doses of Vitamin C at some levels are not retained in the body.

Vitamin C has been widely touted for its alleged ability to prevent the common cold and to alleviate colds and other diseases. These claims are disputed by some scientists.

The leading advocate of massive Vitamin C intake is Dr. Linus Pauling, the California Nobel Prize winner, who recommends daily doses of 250 milligrams to 10 grams.

The Indiana chemist, Dr. Eugene S. Wagner, reported on a study of the vitamin at a news conference Monday at a national meeting of the American Chemical Society.

Wagner, of Ball State University, Muncie, Ind., and his coworkers gave increasingly large doses of ascorbic acid—Vitamin C—to 24 students over a period of six weeks.

The doses started at 100 milligrams and increased to 2000 milligrams.

The study found that the amount of ascorbic acid excreted in urine equaled the dose taken up to 500 milligrams a day. At 1000 milligrams, 65 per cent of that ingested was excreted in urine, and 42 per cent of the 2000 milligram dose was excreted.

It is possible, Wagner said, that the remaining amount at the higher levels was excreted in feces, but that it was not possible to measure this.

The scientist emphasized that his was a pilot study and termed it crude. He said it was as important for what it does not indicate as for what it does.

He said he makes no claim for the therapeutic benefits of the vitamin, and added that his findings relate only to healthy subjects.

But he said, "We do believe our data indicate that after seven days on a regimen of as little as 250 milligrams ascorbic acid a day, saturation of tissues occurs and virtually all of the dose is excreted...up to a dosage of 500 milligrams daily."

And he said that at the larger doses the body continues to excrete greater amounts than taken in through the ordinary diet for two days after the high doses are discontinued.

"I question whether you should be taking massive doses if you're excreting it," Wagner said.

ONE-IN-A-HOLE—Motorists should watch where they park their cars next time or they might end up in a hole like this one did on South Pickaway Street in front of the Goodwill Store. According to Service Director Atwood Jones no definite future plans have been made to repair the hole since it is not in the flow of traffic.

Invasion Of Privacy

Government snooping has gotten so far out of hand in recent years that it is somewhat difficult to think about it without getting mad. It is apparent that such unwarranted invasions of privacy have been condoned by high government officials in cases where the ends were felt to justify the means.

As long as "ordinary citizens" were not allowed, this sort of sneaking was supposed to be allowable. Well, it isn't.

If "bugging" can be used against undesirables, why should it one day soon not be used against everyone?

Government snooping could present a greater threat to that "ordinary citizen" than organized crime.

There is little enough left to him by the government in these days of the ever-expanding welfare state. His private life, at least, must continue to be his own.

The whole wiretapping can of worms is now forbidden by law, except in special cases with judicial consent. But it is obvious that it was engaged in nevertheless. And a continual watch on the activities of government agents must be kept to see that they do not exceed the limits of what is right and allowable.

The Shroud Again

By JEFFREY HART

This fall in Turin, Italy, an event will occur that is loaded with religious and historical significance. The famous Holy Shroud will be made available to an international scientific commission for examination testing.

As is generally well known, strong reason exists — astonishingly enough — to believe that the Shroud is actually the burial garment of Jesus. Until I myself had gone into the matter in some detail, I would have scoffed at the notion, but in a previous column I outlined the evidence; and the interested reader will do well to consult the book, "It Is the Lord," by Father Peter Rinaldi, soon to be reissued in paperback, or the extraordinary article on the Shroud by Barbara M. Sullivan in the July 20 issue of National Review.

Even more remarkably, the cloth has on it the imprint of a full-length figure, the face and other features clearly discernible, an imprint evidently produced by the reaction of materials used in ancient burial procedure with chemicals contained in perspiration.

The possibility, and I would say the probability, that the Shroud really is the burial garment of Jesus naturally has led to great circumspection in the handling of it. Nevertheless, the required authorization for the scientific testing has now been given — by Pope Paul VI, by the Archbishop of Turin, and by the Royal House of Savoy, the inheritors of the cloth.

The forthcoming tests will certainly enhance our knowledge of the Shroud. They will be the subject of extensive TV coverage, certainly in Europe and probably here as well. They might establish its authenticity, or else certain questions will remain. Carbon-dating procedures, for example, seem to work best on newly excavated objects which have been free from recent exposure and "contamination." But the Shroud has been handled for centuries, probably millennia.

We do know that the image on the cloth is not a painting. Experts differ in their hypotheses about how it was produced. Fiber examination may provide a definitive answer.

The prospect that scientists will be examining what may be the dried blood stains of Jesus is more than a bit mind-boggling, especially from the perspective of Western Christendom.

Meanwhile, with the tests in prospect, scholars working with large photographs of the Shroud have been using it to draw aside the veil surrounding those ancient events.

Pierre Barbet in "A Doctor at Calvary" has used the Shroud to produce a careful analysis of the physical events leading up to the death on the cross. In her National Review article, Ms. Sullivan has carried the investigation another step forward. In the scriptural account, we read that the women of Galilee followed after, beheld the tomb "and how his body was laid." What, asks Ms. Sullivan, did they actually see?

Meticulously examining the details of the Shroud, measuring and calculating, as set forth in her article, she arrives at a surprising conclusion. The figure on the Shroud did not, as one might think, lie flat in the tomb.

"The left foot possibly situates well across the right foot; the frontal image 'shortens' with a shift or twist to the

Bendix Sets Purchase Of Autolite

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Ford Motor Co. and The Bendix Corporation announced Monday they have agreed on acquisition by Bendix of Ford's Autolite spark plug plant at Fostoria, Ohio, and the Autolite trademark.

They said the purchase price is approximately $29 million, subject to certain adjustments.

Closing of the transaction is scheduled to take place on or about Oct. 24 and the 1,500 employees at the plant will be offered employment with Bendix, the announcement said.

Ford and Bendix said they have agreed on a 10-year contract under which Bendix will supply 100 per cent of Ford's U. S. original equipment and after market requirements for spark plugs as well as Ford's Canadian original equipment spark plug requirements. Spark plugs sold to Ford will bear the Autolite trademark for at least five years, they said.

U. S. District Court in Detroit ordered Ford to divest itself of the Fostoria plant and their Autolite trademark by Oct. 25. In accordance with the court's order, terms of the agreement are being submitted to the Department of Justice for approval, the two companies said.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Lately our family has been plagued by all sorts of skin conditions. None of these have been serious, but very annoying.

My husband was infected with ringworm. My daughter developed thrush in the mouth. And I developed a fungus infection of the vagina after ten days of treatment of a kidney infection with antibiotics.

Could there be something in our family living habits that has suddenly started this onslaught of skin infections?

Mrs. S.V., N.J.

Dear Mrs. V.:

No, I think that the onset of these three fungus infections is simply by coincidence. It does not indicate any special family vulnerability to them.

Ringworm of the skin, or dermatophytosis, is a fungus infection that affects the skin, the hair, and sometimes the nails.

These infections are superficial and usually affect only the outer layer of the skin. Warm weather and high humidity seem to make the skin more susceptible to the fungus responsible for ringworm. The typical round appearance of the skin irritation gives it its name.

The same fungus is related to athlete's foot, which is so commonly transmitted from person to person in locker rooms and gymnasiums.

There are now a number of excellent anti-fungal drugs that can be applied locally or orally to control these infections.

Good hygiene is most important if these ringworm infections are to be kept from returning or spreading.

Thrush is a fungus infection caused by candida albicans. Under normal circumstances, this fungus lies harmlessly on the skin and on the mucous membrane of the mouth.

When the body's resistance to infection is lowered, this fungus flares up and causes the white cloud-like patches so characteristic of thrush of the mouth.

Newborn infants are particular candidates for this fungus infection, which is not serious. Anti-fungus drugs readily control this condition.

Vaginal infection caused by a fungus is a rather frequent aftermath in women who have been intensively treated with antibiotics.

Bacteria and fungi normally live in harmonious balance on the mucous membrane lining of the body.

The bacteria seem to keep the fungi in control. When antibiotics are used to control an infection, the balance between the bacteria and the fungi is upset.

The bacteria, bombarded by the antibiotic, no longer keep the fungi within their normal bounds.

The result can be a secondary infection of the lining of the vagina, the lining of the rectum or the lining of the mucous membrane of the mouth by a variety of fungi.

There now are a number of antibiotics that contain antifungal properties. In people who are known to be susceptible to fungus infections, great care is used in the selection of antibiotics.

Crude Oil Smears California Beach

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Coast Guard says it doubts that the thick, sticky crude oil that has smeared beaches near here will cause any serious ecological problems.

Investigators still were trying to pinpoint the source, the Coast Guard said late Sunday. Beaches from Coronado to Rosarito, Mexico, about 15 miles south of the border, were affected.

Authorities said they hoped natural tidal action would clean the beaches, and the spill did not seem large enough to cause serious hazards to the environment.

Won't Leave Till She's Got A Man

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are contemplating a divorce. She is 40, and I am 38, and we have five children. I am in love with another woman and want to marry her, but I will not leave my wife until I am sure she has somebody else. She knows all about my situation.

Even though I don't love my wife, I want her to be happy. She is blond, attractive, 5 foot 8 and weighs 115. Money is not a problem. I intend to support her and the children, but I'd feel much better if she had a man. We've been the route of ministers and family counselors, and now I think a professional matchmaker or computerdating service is in order. Who locates prospective husbands for single women?

NO NAME IN N.Y.

DEAR NO NAME: I don't. Your concern for your wife is commendable, but have you discussed this with her? Is she interested in another husband? If she is, does she want to go the computer or matchmaking route? I'd like to hear her side of it. She may not be programmed to follow your plan.

DEAR ABBY: Cold chills ran up my spine when I read the letter from that heartbroken mother, whose daughter, a nurse, was marrying an amputee. (He lost both his legs when he stepped on a mine in Vietnam.) The mother said her daughter was beautiful, and could just as easily have married "a whole man."

I am sure many people think my husband could have married "a whole woman" instead of me. You see, when I was 3, my brother shot me through the head with a .22 rifle. Thank God I am still alive, although my left side is paralyzed.

I can talk, and do anything other woman can do. But best of all, a wonderful man thought I was "whole" enough to marry. He is handsome, kind, and faithful, and he treats me like a queen. We've been happily married for 10 years. I still can't believe my good luck. Sign me,

FREDDY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It's more than "luck." You must have a lot going for you. Congratulations.

State Plans Anticancer Effort

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's health officials plan to renew an effort to try to learn more about cancer and the kinds of environment that favor it.

Dr. John Ackerman, chief of the State Health Department's communicable diseases division, said the research will be done by two or possible three professionals.

They will operate a new cancer epidemiology and surveillance program authorized by the passage this year in the legislature of a bill by Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo. Ackerman said that while the bill provided no funds for the programs, the department will look to the Department of Finance for an estimated $50,000 the program will cost the first year.

Plans call for the new unit to gather information about leukemia, cancer of the blood, which killed 18,296 Ohioans in 1972. Ackerman said the researchers will look for "patterns" linking occupational nutritional, environmental and infectious conditions with certain types of cancer.

Ohio had a similar program back in the 1950s which was financed with federal funds. Federal money ran out. Records from that effort, along with those kept by many hospitals, could enable the department to acquire some comparable data within six months, Ackerman said.

how to reduce the risk, with protective clothing and things like that," he said.

Sen. Valiquette said, "we need a statewide program to determine the correlation between many types of cancer and just what causes them. We should be identifying incidence of cancer by county, and it takes the health department to do it effectively statewide."

Miss Carol Lorraine Hill
Bride Of Steven G. Ewing

MRS. STEVEN GIBSON EWING

The wedding of Miss Carol Lorraine Hill to Mr. Steven Gibson Ewing took place Aug. 12th in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Loring R. Hill of Kingston. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ewing, Grandview Farms, Waverly.

The Rev. Harry C. Hill, pastor of the United Methodist Church, Lithopolis, performed the ceremony 6:45 p.m. in the central parlor in the presence of guests who had been ushered from the garden area due to a light rain changing the setting from the garden to the home. The altar was decorated with pink and white carnations, held in place with pink satin ribbon, and flanked on either side with tall floor vases of carnations, palm leaves, and pink baby's breath. The bridal party moved from the garden steps through the glassed-in entrance way directly to the altar where a single ring ceremony was performed.

An hour of music preceded the ceremony, presented by Mrs. William Rihl, organist and vocalist, Miss Sara Ewing, sister of the groom. Miss Ewing sang "More," "People," "One Hand One Heart" and "The Wedding Song." "The Lord's Prayer" was sung at the close of the ceremony. The traditional processional and recessional music was used. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her father and mother.

The bride was attired in an off-white organza gown with high round neckline and capped sleeves edged with pink ruffles and simulated flower petals. White lace defined the embroidered bodice and high waistline, extending to a pink satin bow in the back where long streamers trailed down over the flounce of the floor length skirt. The bottom of the skirt echoed the sleeves and bodice with a deep ruffle of simulated flower petals and embroidered lace edged with pink.

The bride's veil of white tulle was caught to a band of pink baby's breath and white carnations, and flowed gracefully over the flounce of her gown into a cathedral length train. The bride carried a bouquet of white cymbidium orchids threaded with pink, combined with ivy leaves.

Maid of honor was Miss Deborah Wright, Worthington. She wore a crepe gown of shell pink with ruffled edged halter top. The floor length skirt carried a ruffle from the left waistline down and around the flared hem at the bottom. She carried a bouquet of pink and white Fuji mums.

The bridesmaids, in gowns made by the bride identical to that of the maid of honor, also carried identical bouquets of Fuji mums. They were: Lisa Ewing, junior bridesmaid, sister of the groom; Miss Theresa Hill, sister of the bride, and Miss Cynthia Mushrush, New Philadelphia. The flower girl Susan Gay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gay San Diego, Calif., a niece of the bride, wore a gown identical to that of the bridesmaids and carried a white basket of pink rose petals.

Mr. Joseph Vulgamore of Waverly was best man and David Lee Petty, son of Mr. and Mrs. David F. Petty, Kingston, a nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Ushers were: Mr. Dale Hill, brother of the bride; Mr. Robert Netherton and Mr. Donald Wiltberger, Waverly; Mr. Michael Daughters of Chillicothe, and junior usher Jonathan Gay, San Diego, Calif., nephew of the bride, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gay.

Mrs. Hill was attired in a bottle green, floor length gown of polished silk crepe. Mrs. Ewing selected a formal length gown of pink and green print voile under white silk organza. Mrs. Olive Hoffman, grandmother of the bride, was attired in a knitted blue and white print and she wore a corsage of cymbidium orchids, similar to the identical corsages of orchids worn by Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Ewing.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 375 guests was given by Mr. and Mrs. Hill on the double patio at the rear of their home. The bride's table on the upper patio, was centered by a five tiered wedding cake, surrounded with pink carnations and white chrysanthemums. The groom's table, directly opposite, was centered with a five tiered chocolate cake topped with wheat heads and golden mums.

Mrs. Eugene Crawford assisted the bride with her gown. Other hostesses were: Mrs. Lloyd Francis, Waverly, directing guests; Mrs. Ewing Giffin, Wooster, sister of the bride and Mrs. Earl Hoffman at the bride's table, and Mrs. Philip Gay, and Mrs. David F. Petty sisters of the bride, at the groom's table. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Philip Davis, Route 1 Kingston, and Mrs. Homer Leach, and Miss Beth Myers, Route 1 Chillicothe, presided at the punch table where a white cascading fountain permitted the guests to be self serving. At the punch table, the bride and groom toasted from silver goblets used by the groom's paternal great-grandparents. Hostesses at the guest registers were Miss Sue Anne Knisley, Kingston, and Miss Cheryl Mentges, Chillicothe.

The rain having subsided, the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Ewing greeted guests in the garden below the patio.

When the new Mr. and Mrs. Ewing left for their wedding trip through the Pocono Mountains, Mrs. Ewing was wearing a floral print halter back dress with red collar and matching red jacket.

The bride and groom will reside on Route 3, Waverly, formerly the home of the grooms late grandparents.

Mrs. Ewing is a graduate from Zane Trace High School, and Stephens College, School of Home Economics and of Retailing, Class of 1973. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Phi sorority and is employed at the J.C. Penney Company, Chillicothe.

Mr. Ewing is a graduate of Waverly

New Miss Black America Named

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — The new Miss Black America says the essence of beauty comes from within and is spiritual.

"It's a sharing of oneself with others," said Arnice Russell, 22, of New York City. "That's all I really want out of life: to share myself."

Miss Russell, who was crowned here Sunday, will travel to Europe with the Miss Black America USO troupe.

An assistant designer for a leather clothing manufacturer, Miss Russell later hopes to join the Negro Ensemble Company, a repertory theater group.

New Year's Eve Party Set Tonight

GENEVA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ohio (AP) — its the end of the tourist season in this Ashtabula County resort town, so the Swiss Chalet is getting ready to hold its annual New Year's Eve party Wednesday night.

The summer ending celebration, complete with noisemakers, paper hats and Auld Lang Syne, began 18 years ago.

"It's a pep-up at the end of the summer when people get blah," owner Martha Woodward said. "It gives everybody a shot in the arm."

Pro Grid Cutdown Day Here

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—It was cutdown day in pro football, and the biggest cut of all came late Monday night when John Mecom Jr., owner of the New Orleans Saints, announced the release of head coach J.D. Roberts.

Saying the move was made "with my sincere regret, much regret," Mecom announced that Roberts was being replaced by John North, the Saints' offensive coordinator and wide receiver coach.

"Certainly no one in pro football has ever worked harder than Coach Roberts did in changing the complete structure of our football team," Mecom said. "His task might have been an impossible one, but his efforts have never slackened, as he turned to young players to build a winner."

"It required a great deal of courage for a man to undertake and continue with the very difficult assignment in face of almost constant outside criticism."

Roberts, 40, who was in the final year of a three-year contract, became head coach for the Saints midway through the 1970 season. The Saints, an expansion team created in 1967, completed under Roberts a 2-11-1 season in 1970, were 4-8-2 in 1971 and 2-11-1 again in 1972, finishing last in the NFC West each time.

They had lost all four 1973 preseason games.

North, a 51-year-old native of Gilliam, La., was graduated in 1948 from Vanderbilt University, where he played end on the football squad. He played with the Baltimore Colts for three seasons and entered coaching in 1954 with Tennessee Tech. He went to Kentucky in 1956, then to Louisiana State University as an offensive coach in 1962 and joined the Detroit Lions in 1965 for eight years as receiver coach.

He came to the Saints this year.

The others cut Monday were all players, as pro football teams scrambled to get down to the 49-man roster limit.

The axe came down with authority at the camp of the Los Angeles Rams, where offensive guard Allan Graf and 11 other players fell victim. Graf, from the University of Southern California, had played in the College All-Star game.

Nick Eddy, a star running back at Notre Dame who had been plagued by injuries throughout his seven pro years, was one of 11 men placed on waivers by the Detroit Lions.

And before the firing of Roberts, the Saints announced the cuts of Wayne Dorton, Richard Watkins, Gary Arthur and Drew Buie to make the 49-man limit.

Some players were more fortunate—they were traded to other clubs on the frantic day of wheeling and dealing.

The Washington Redskins picked up wide receiver Bill Malinchak in exchange for two draft choices, then placed on waivers quarterback Charlie Richards, punter Dave Beverly, linebacker Eddie Sheats and six others.

The Miami Dolphins put center Chuck Bradley and running back Eddie Jenkins on the injured reserved list, rendering them inactive for the entire season. Then they waived kicker Jeff White and defensive end Ron Fernandez and placed defensive end Ron Burger on the futures list—making it unlikely that he will see action, either.

Pittsburgh rookie linebacker Gail Clark was traded to the Chicago Bears in exchange for veteran wide receiver Bob Wallace. The Steelers, 1-3 after Sunday's embarrassing loss to the New York Giants, also cut four players.

Expos Blank L.A. Dodgers

By KEN RAPPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer

Steve Rogers doesn't scare the Los Angeles Dodgers...but he does beat them.

"He doesn't have the stuff that overwhelms you," said Los Angeles Manager Walt Alton after the Montreal rookie pitched a three-hit, 4-0 decision over the Dodgers Monday night.

"Let's see what he does next year," Dodger catcher Joe Ferguson said of the young rightlander who was brought up to the major leagues just last July.

Rogers, improving his record to 5-3, held the Dodgers hitless until Ferguson singled with two out in the fourth. The Dodger catcher got another single in the seventh and Willie Davis got the other Los Angeles hit, a ninth-inning single.

In the other National League games, the Philadelphia Phillies turned back the San Francisco Giants 7-4; the New York Mets tripped the San Diego Padres 6-5, and the St. Louis Cardinals downed the Houston Astros 6-3 in 14 innings.

Phillies 7, Giants 4

Home runs by Mike Schmidt and Bill Robinson helped Philadelphia beat San Francisco 7-4 and snap a three-game losing streak. Jim Lonborg won his 12th game against 10 defeats with ninth-inning relief help.

The Phillies scored five runs off Jim Barr in the first inning with Schmidt's shot the big blow. He was hitless in 17 trips before the home run.

Mets 6, Padres 5

Rusty Staub slugged a grand slam homer in the fourth inning to help New York beat San Diego 6-5. George Stone, 8-3, benefitted from Staub's blast.

Fred Kendall, Clarence Gaston and Dave Roberts hit home runs for the Padres. Steve Arlin, 9-12, was the losing pitcher.

Cardinals 6, Astros 3

Ken Reitz broke a tie with a two-out, two-run single in the 14th inning to lead St. Louis to a 6-3 decision over Houston. Reitz' game-winning hit followed three walks. Lou Brock then added an insurance run for the Cardinals with a double.

The Cardinals had tied the game 3-3 in the eighth when Brock singled and circled the bases on Ted Sizemore's double.

Cincy Reds Hit By Tolan Trouble

CINCINNATI (AP)—Outfielder Bobby Tolan filed a grievance against the Cincinnati Reds charging the club was using the disabled list to discipline him following an argument with a team official.

Tolan, who filed the report with the Major League Players Association in New York, also disputed a total of $350 in fines levied against him.

"I expected him to file a grievance," said General Manager Bob Howsam. "When we hear about it—through channels—we will determine what course to take. We may file a grievance of our own."

He declined to discuss the grievance. Howsam denied the fines resulted from an argument Tolan had Friday night with Reds player personnel director Sheldon Bender.

"That had nothing to do with the fine," Howsam said. "They both got hot. It was what he did on Sunday that brought the action on."

Howsam said Tolan was scheduled to take a physical examination at 8 a.m. Saturday but did not report.

Howsam said Bender Saturday night called Tolan at the clubhouse to ask why he hadn't taken the physical. Howsam said Tolan cursed Bender and insulted management and hung up.

Tolan charged the Reds placed him on the 15-day disabled list without determining whether there was anything wrong with him.

But Tolan admitted he received two shots in his back for pain after an examination by the New York Mets team physician last week.

Tolan said he was examined Monday by Reds team physician Dr. George Ballou.

"He told me that as of today—Monday, I'm fit," Tolan said.

John Johnson, an assistant in the office of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, confirmed that the Reds filed notice of Tolan's placement on the disabled list, according to The Cincinnati Enquirer.

"A doctor's letter usually follows in three or four days," he said.

Cincinnati Reds Enjoy Good Attendance

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, still battling to catch the Los Angeles Dodgers for the National League's western division lead, are enjoying themselves at the turnstiles.

Already 1,550,320 fans have paid their way in this season and the Reds are hoping for their first two million fan season.

TV Stars Win Trophy

Teays Valley's 10-year-old All-Star team won the Sportsmanship Trophy in the recent Hilliard Tournament.

Bengals Eye Defensive Strategy

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals defense, relatively unchanged this season, is hoping another year's experience will improve their chance Saturday in a pre-season contest with the Atlanta Falcons.

The Falcons demolished Cincinnati in a pre-season contest last year 44-14. "Atlanta," said Bengals defensive coordinator Chuck Weber, "They are like their coach, a tough, hard-nosed group."

Atlanta Coach Norm Van Brocklin, former long-time National Football League quarterback, had a 7-7 regular season record last year and failed to win a championship in 11 previous coaching seasons.

"They have a fine running attack," said Weber, "probably as good as any with those big hard running backs—Art Malone and Dave Hampton."

But the Bengals' real test will come against the passing attack of quarterbacks Pat Sullivan and Bob Lee.

"We don't know which one they'll throw against us but that tight end Jim Mitchell, he's a real threat."

"He's the best tight end in the business, a fine blocker, pass threat and his running blocks are superb."

Once Proud Hunting
Dog Now Just Pet

TEL AVIV (AP) — A dog's life is changing in the Middle East.

The Saluki, once the monarch of the desert and a proud hunter, is now nothing more than a pet to the nomadic Bedouin of the Sinai desert. But tradition still accords the Saluki a position of veneration, even above the multipurpose camel.

To Europeans and Americans, the Saluki is a racing dog and a rare attraction at dog shows, like its cousins the Greyhound and the shaggy Afghan.

For centuries, Saluki dogs hunted gazelles and wild goats for the Arabs of Sinai.
By tradition, a Moslem may eat the meat brought down by a Saluki but not by any other dog.

But now there are few gazelles in the desert and wild mountain goats have all but disappeared.

The reason, says Israeli naturalist Yigal Selah, is that the desert is getting drier.
Wild game, abundant in the days when Moses crossed the wilderness from Egypt, has grown almost extinct with the drying sources of fresh water.

In recent years, hungry Bedouin hunting with firearms — sometimes with Israeli-made submachine guns — have nearly exterminated the remaining game.

"Now the dog hunts only for his own survival, usually for rats. A family of Arabs will have only one or two Salukis.
There isn't enough food for more," Selah said in an interview. The dog is fed from the family pot and in most Bedouin camps both dog and man rarely have enough.

Selah, a guide for the Nature Reserve Authority, is one of about 40 dog breeders in Israel who raise Salukis.
Only a few raise the Sinai breed, which differs from the European variety.

The Saluki looks much like the Greyhound, but it is smaller. Like a cheetah or gazelle, it is built for speed, with long powerful legs, a deep chest and a receding abdomen. It is short haired, but European Salukis may have long hair, or
"feathering," on the tail or ears.

The Sinai Saluki, believed to be closest to the original dog of the Arabian desert, is heavier and broader in the chest than its European relatives. This gives it greater stamina and strength for a long chase.

Its off-white, sandy color makes it hard to spot at a distance in the drifting desert sands. It doesn't suffer from ticks, but it has a problem with camel fleas.

Selah says he has clocked
one of his Salukis at 35 miles per hour for more than four miles. Greyhounds may run slightly faster, but not for such long distances.

The Saluki is thought to be the oldest domestic animal, outdating even horses and goats. It has been hunting for man for 7,000 years, perhaps more.

Pictures and mummified remains of the dog have been found in Egyptian tombs, and it has been depicted in rock drawings found in Turkey.

The Saluki was apparently introduced into Europe by the Crusaders who brought it back from the Holy Land. By contrast, Greyhounds have been known only for about 400 years.

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Good for getting at whatever work faces you and doing it in such manner that you gain the goodwill of others as well as have a wonderful feeling of satisfaction yourself. Unusually good for housewives to get home spotless and immaculate and for men to have places of work in perfect functional order. Action.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't waste a moment of this precious day when you can get much accomplished if you apply yourself early. Find the right kind of clothing to suit your personality. Join good friends socially in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan to do some entertaining that will make those you love happier and give you much pleasure. You can take that small risk now you have been afraid to do before. Good results will come if you are sure of yourself.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You want to make some additions at home that will please kin and the morning is a good time. Then get busy with business affairs. Entertain at home tonight and make a fine impression.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Set up appointments early and then off to the shopping you have been unable to do before. Make sure that unusual business matters are well handled. Check your utilities and see if all is in order. Read some in p.m.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Although spending is more your speed, this is a good day to get into those big deals for which you are famous and achieve big results. Get quick advice from that trusted banker first. Then proceed like a general.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Being with good friends is your best bet today, and you can have both pleasant and profitable moments, hours. Group affairs are just your cup of tea. Make sure you do not spend beyond your means.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Being particularly devoted to the one you love can bring greater harmony for the future. Use your intuition so you come closer to some cherished aim. Much happiness in p.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Confide in some good friend a fine plan you have in mind and get his cooperation so it becomes truly successful. Get into the social circle that most appeals to you in p.m. Converse intelligently.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Fine day for making the right impression on bigwigs in business who will appreciate your ability. Get credit built up. Your success and happiness can increase proportionately to your wise actions of this day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Seek that data you need so your business operations will meet with far greater success. Making new and clever associates among those with greater background than yours is wise. Think logically, constructively.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Discuss with associates what your aims are, then get busy and do the work required by such plan. Be sure you show others you are going to keep promises made, although there may be a slight delay. Make sure you hire right help.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Sit down and discuss honestly with allies what it is you have in mind and listen to what they have to suggest so you cement far better relations. Plan the future in minute detail. Leave nothing to chance.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those young people who automatically gets fine ideas but is then not certain about them and could lose out because of this, so teach early to have more faith and to act in a positive manner. Parents should give praise early where and when it is due. Fine chart for any profession that requires precision and patience; much success is then possible. Some study of music is good, as well as dancing. A fine mathematician here, too.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — This is rerun year for Alistair Cooke, and it's a good deal for us in two respects.

Respect one is that his award-winning "America" television series will be repeated, starting next month.

Respect two is a Columbia Records album called "An Evening with Alistair Cooke at the Piano," in which the British-born journalist, commentator and critic fearlessly sings, whistles and plays piano.

He recorded it about 20 years ago. Columbia recently reissued it, and you should dash down to your record dealer right now and get it.

It is a truly different kind of album. The selections range from "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes" to "T-Bone Blues." Each rendition is preceded by informed, interesting musings about music and musicians.

Cooke, a serious student of jazz, describes his piano style this way: "Let's say it's, ah, a starry-eyed amateur's attempt to imitate Fatha Hines."

Now, regarding his "America" series: The Xerox Corp., which is sponsoring it again this year, says it'll be repeated on at least 110 television stations on Saturdays or Sundays.

Most of the stations will begin it on Sept. 15 or 16 and show it at 7 p.m. local time to give younger viewers a chance to see it. Many kids missed it the first time because NBC ran it at 10 p.m. Xerox also says the 13-part series will appear on a weekly basis, in contrast to its twice-a-month appearance — when it wasn't preempted — on the NBC Television network.

In October, Cooke's tour of America is coming out in book form both here and in England.

The BBC is publishing the book in England, he said, but is using the American text rather than revise it to include the British style of referring to programs as programmes, humor as humour and so forth.

"The day is gone when Englishmen winced when they saw labour without a 'u' it it," the 64-year-old journalist observed. "It costs a lot of money to wince these days."

Newspapers Cut Back Editions

By BARTON REPPERT
Associated Press Writer

A worsening shortage of newsprint has forced newspapers across the country to drop regular features such as comics, limit advertising, reduce news space, trim press runs and even suspend publication some days.

The shortage has been aggravated by continuing strikes at some major papermaking mills in Canada and a Canadian railroad strike that began last week. About 65 per cent of all newsprint used in the United States comes from Canada.

In Ottawa, Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau said Monday night that Parliament would be recalled to end the rail strike because "we cannot live with such disruptions any longer."

Newspapers hardest hit by the shortage have been smaller dailies without long-term contracts with paper manufacturers. However, some of the nation's largest papers are beginning to feel the pinch.

The Wall Street Journal announced on Monday that certain features would be curtailed or suspended and a "strict limit" was being placed on the amount of advertising that could be accepted.

The financial daily, with a circulation of 1.3 million, also said it was limiting newsstand sales and suspending all circulation sales promotion activity.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer, in an attempt to conserve dwindling stocks of regular newsprint, today published some editions with two of its four sections printed on pink paper that had been left over from recent holiday issues.

Cities Blackened By Falling Soot

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — The lady of the house came to the door with black grime all over her knees, feet and hands.

"Would I talk about the fallout? Just look at me," she said.

Mrs. Gordon Claus was one of many victims of a mysterious fallout of soot that blanketed part of Windsor, Ont., and several suburbs of neighboring Detroit Sunday night and returned again Monday evening.

She and thousands of others will have to repeat Monday's housecleaning process today.

Windsor police said the soot's return was "terrible—just awful" and spread over the city's west side, closest to Detroit.

Police said the fallout was not as heavy as Sunday's but seemed worse because of temperatures in the 90s and high humidity. A police spokesman said the fallout was gritty and many persons found it difficult to breathe.

Two Windsor constables complained of nausea and breathing problems and were treated and released from a hospital. Residents with respiratory diseases were urged to stay indoors as much as possible.

Environmental officials have not yet pinpointed the source of the oily grime. But Edmund Morant, enforcement supervisor for the Wayne County Department of Health's air pollution control division, said the soot was from oil-fired equipment. Two power plants in the area use oil-fired equipment.

"The situation is pathetic in some of these homes," said David Edwards, engineer for the air management branch of Windsor's Department of the Environment. "They woke up and their skin was black, their clothes were black, their drapes, their furniture."

The Chicago Daily News has cut down space for news coverage by a page, while the Chicago Tribune has reduced its press run—the number of copies printed—and tightened waste controls.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., publishers of the Times and the Evening Independent said the newspapers were cutting back their space for news by 35 per cent and advertising space was being trimmed by 25 per cent.

The Jackson County Floridian has announced that it will suspend publication of Monday afternoon editions after Sept. 1 because of the newsprint shortage.

The Bellefontaine Examiner in Ohio did not publish last Saturday, missing its first issue in 82 years. Publisher T. E. Hubbard said the paper later obtained an interim stock of newsprint.

Arizona's two largest newspapers, The Arizona Republic and The Phoenix Gazette, have dropped their first editions because of the shortage.

In Wisconsin, the Wausau Record-Herald eliminated its editorial page and most comics Saturday, saying they may have to be cut out on some future days.

Other newspapers said they had not encountered much difficulty because they had stocked extra newsprint and were relying on more than one supplier.

Expectant Mothers Warned About Adhesive Spray

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chromosome analysis has been recommended by the Consumer Product Safety Commission for expectant parents who have used spray adhesives of the type banned by the agency last week.

The commission also recommends that those planning a child consider delaying plans until a doctor is consulted.

The recommendations came Monday from a panel of specialists convened by the commission to track down the substance linked to two birth deformities in Oklahoma City and chromosome damage in the parents and four other adults.

The commission banned four sprays last week, and a spokesman said a ban on nine other brands is expected soon.

He estimated the number of spray cans circulating in hobby and art supply stores at "millions."

The sprays are used for sealing packages or attaching pieces to graphic designs.

Among parents exposed to the sprays "there is certainly a good chance of having a normal, healthy baby," said the commission's panel of specialists. "We already know that in many circumstances of this type a normal, healthy baby has resulted."

The panel said there appears to be no need for concern yet over children who have been exposed. But it recommended precautions for adults of childbearing age, particularly when both parents have been exposed.

The adhesives banned last week were Krylon Spray Adhesive made by Borden Co. of Columbus, Ohio, and Adhesive 77, Foil Art Spray Adhesive and Scotch Brand Spra-Ment made by The 3-M Co. of St. Paul, Minn.

Licking-Knox Flood Meet To Be Held

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Newark city officials planned to talk with representatives of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and state officials later this week to clear up confusion over a major flood protection project on the Licking-Knox county line.

The project, in the planning stages for several months, involves dredging and deepening the channel of the Licking River and creating a diversionary ditch for one of its tributaries.

The Ohio Natural Resources Department sent a letter to the engineers saying that the department would have to consider the projects separately before funding could be approved.

The corps said the letter meant the state was dropping its support of the project.

Newark Mayor Richard Baker received a copy of a letter Monday sent from the Army engineers to the resources department expressing concern over the state withdrawing its support of the project.

The three sides are to get together by telephone this week to discuss the matter. Original plans call for the project to begin in 1975.

County To Sell Old Barn On Infirmary Farm

Pickaway County Commissioners Monday decided to sell an old barn standing on the lands of the county infirmary.

Commissioners Wayne Hines, Dick T. Tootle and L. Robert Liston said they felt there would be enough salvageable material in the barn to warrant its sale.

They discussed but took no action on selling the old Children's home building for salvage. The commissioners feel the building has become a liability and hazard since it was abandoned several years ago in favor of smaller group homes for children under the care of Pickaway County Children's Services. The building was condemned by the state fire officials prior to its being abandoned.

Commissioners also discussed ways of funding the Senior Citizens Center with Twyla Lorentz, director. They indicated there was little the county could do in addition to what is already being done.

Driver Cited In Rear-End Crash

Two cars collided 7:30 Tuesday evening at the junction of County Road 511 and Route 23 north.

Judith L. Novga, 23, of 121 Stahl Ave., was cited for failure to maintain assured clear distance ahead when she ran her car into the rear of an auto operated by 20-year-old Carl C. Ramsey, of 826 Railroad St.

Ms. Novga informed Highway Patrol Sgt. N.D. Staten she was checking on traffic on Route 23 and did not see Ramsey stop his car ahead. She was slightly injured but did not receive treatment.

Cars Ordered Cleared From Orient Land

A judgment, granted on default of the plaintiff to appear or plead, was granted Monday against Michale Monst, Route 1, Orient.

Judge William Ammer signed the judgment requiring Monst to cease using his rural Orient property as an auto junkyard. Monst was ordered to clean off the property so it will conform to the rules for residential use.
